

Reliable Solutions.

Custom Innovations.

At Empire Technical Development, we are passionate about design that works. Automation is our specialty because there is nothing more frustrating than spending too much of your time doing the mundane necessities of your job that keep you from working on what really matters.

We are not advocates for machines taking over the world! We are wholehearted supporters of innovations that save time and free you to pursue your passion.

See a trend here? We are experts in the art of saving time with excellence through innovation. We have designs that might already suit your needs, but don't stop there. Imagine the possibilities for custom design that could save you time and reduce your costs. At Empire Technical Development, solving problems with reliable solutions ranks high on our priority list, and custom design is one of our specialties.

It's our hope that we can build a long-term relationship where, as industries and technologies change, we continue to provide you with the best products to meet your needs.

Our Mission

Helping businesses and research facilities to run smoothly, gain more accuracy, and save time with useful technology.

Carefully crafted instruments that can carry out partially or fully-automated operations in Biotechnology, Agriculture, and Research laboratories in both domestic and international markets is our primary focus, but at our core, we want to improve work environments with reliable, excellent design.

Bottom Line

We recognize the constant growth and updating requirements of the laboratory workspace and are ready to adapt, providing flexible service to accommodate the needs of a dynamic environment.

Our experience, leadership, and strong technical skills ensure the provision of excellent quality, cost-effective solutions for laboratories and institutions of any size.
